DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to applicant's amendment received on August 12th, 2009.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 24 and 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Baumgart (U.S. Patent 5,976,138).

Baumgart discloses a device, see Figure 1 below, comprising a guide element comprising a medullary nail having at each end means adapted to secure the nail to opposed bone parts, the distal means includes elements 15, 80a, 80b, and 80c) and the proximal means includes elements (42, 44, 45, 47, etc.). The medullary nail includes an elongate guide slot (12) extending between each end of the nail. The elongate guide slot is provide at one end with a bearing recess, i.e. a portion of the guide slot that extends into the distal end of the nail, and an area for receiving a drive motor, i.e. a portion of the guide slot that receives drive motor 18. The device further includes a spindle member (30) having one end mounted within the bearing recess and the other end connected to the drive motor (18). The device further includes a locking element (elements 20 and 81) engaged with the spindle member and is moved along the spindle element in the guide slot between the ends of the guide slot by the drive motor, wherein the locking element engages an outside surface of the medullary nail, i.e. the head portion of element 81 engages the outer surface as shown in Figures 5-8, and the locking element is attached to a bone segment (85). The examiner would like to note that the term "motor" is being interpreted as something, such as a machine or an engine, that produces or imparts motion (www.dictionary.com). Therefore, the rotational actuator (18) is a "drive motor" as required by the claims since the rotational actuator imparts rotational motion to linear motion that drives the locking element (20 and 81).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 29 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Baumgart (U.S. Patent 5,976,138).

Baumgart discloses the invention as claimed except for the device further comprising two locking elements capable of moving toward one another. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the device of Baumgart further comprising two locking elements that move toward one another in order to distract the bone segments a larger distance, since it has been held that mere duplication of the essential working parts of a device involves only routine skill in the art. St. Regis Paper Co. v. Bemis Co., 193 USPQ 8.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 24, 29, and 31 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. The applicant did not provide any arguments directed to the claims as amended. As discussed by the applicant, the amendments overcame the previous rejection and therefore changed the scope of the claims. Therefore, the new grounds of rejection were necessitated by the new grounds of rejection making this office action FINAL.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
